

Best Periodontal Practice 2018 - UK

Al-Fa Perio Clinic is a private dental practice specialising in the management of gum diseases, gum reconstruction, cosmetic gum work, bone regeneration, and tooth replacement through dental implants using the latest laser technology. We profile the practice to gain a fascinating insight into the range of treatments it offers and how it works to ensure excellence for each and every one of its patients.

Established in 2004, Al-Fa Perio is a specialist periodontal practice, where the team aim to successfully treat anyone with gum problems.

The practice's focus is on high quality, state of the art, cutting edge, innovative treatments. The clinic uses lasers to treat many problems, and its protocols on their use have been developed by Rana Al-Falaki, who is a global leader and trainer in this field, and has undertaken research into bone regeneration, minimally invasive treatments.

Through this technique, Al-Faperio has been able to achieve improved patient-centred outcomes using lasers, better long-term results, with no need for old-style traditional surgery. There are several publications in scientific journals to back up the clinic's work, and its approach has been developed by us and is taught to other specialists in the UK and globally.

Being at the forefront of this innovative solution, Al-Fa Perio is able to offer patients the very highest standards of treatment, as well as supporting its industry peers by offering training and support. Leading the market in cutting-edge periodontal solutions, the practice is valued by patients for its quality, innovative treatments and skilled, professional staff.

It is the clinic's team, which has a combined experience of over 20 years' experience in the dental industry, that has led it to the success that it enjoys today. Every member of the team is dedicated to offering patients the very highest possible standard of support and service throughout their treatment process.

Looking ahead, Al-Fa Perio is keen to continue to focus on the education of dentists to understand periodontitis and where specialist treatment can help, encouraging them to refer patients earlier to ensure that treatment is effective. Driving this change in the industry will offer the clinic's team an exciting challenge which it looks forward to overcoming. With this opportunity and many others on the horizon, the future looks bright for Al-Fa Perio and, most importantly, its patients.
